The speedup in function of the number of mappers P is shown in the graph. The observed speedup is represented by the blue line, while the theoretical speedup is represented by the black line. The graph shows that as the number of mappers increases, both the observed and theoretical speedup also increase, but the observed speedup stays below the theoretical speedup.